Browse the Delirium Research Hub and submit your study

- The NIDUS Research Resources Core has created the Delirium Research Hub - a searchable database of completed and ongoing delirium research studies, intended to enable research collaborations, meta-analyses, and systematic reviews.
- If you have conducted a delirium study, you can submit your basic study information for inclusion in this resource.
- Visit https://deliriumnetwork.org/delirium-research-hub/ for more information on this resource and how to submit your study.

Learn more about the Delirium Boot Camp

- The Delirium Boot Camp is a 2.5 day intensive training course on delirium research and methodology, featuring interactive workshops led by leaders in the field.
- The 2019 Boot Camp will be held at Pennsylvania State University, October 27-29.
- Recordings from previous Boot Camp sessions are available on the NIDUS website: https://deliriumnetwork.org/career-development/delirium-boot-camp-videos/

Apply for a NIDUS Pilot Grant

- The NIDUS Pilots and Innovation Task Force will award at least two $50,000 pilot grants for proposals related to delirium research.
- Two application tracks, Junior Investigator or Experienced Investigator, are available.
- Applications for the 2019 cycle are due November 7, and will be awarded in February, 2020.
- Information on how to apply is at: https://deliriumnetwork.org/pilots/
